

Joint Statement from Royal Mail, Unite/ CMA and CWU

Since the start of the Coronavirus pandemic Royal Mail, the CWU and Unite/ CMA have worked closely to ensure we undertake due diligence to understand the content and impact of any guidance released from the Government, national health authorities and other leading health experts from around the world. This has ensured our Coronavirus risk assessment and supporting operational procedures are under constant review with the appropriate controls in place.

These controls include; 2m social distancing in all aspects of the operational and non-operational sites supported by a range of visuals to support all employees understand how to achieve the standard, provided a range of equipment such as hand sanitiser, masks, antibacterial wipes, gloves which are all underpinned by personal hygiene standards putting health first.

This has been of key importance in protecting our people and all parties signed below are reaffirming their commitment to these standards.

We remain committed to working in close collaboration to prioritise the safety, health and wellbeing of our people across the spectrum of physical and mental health.

Signed:

Steve Jones
Unite/CMA Safety Lead

Dr Shaun Davis
Royal Mail Global Compliance
& Sustainability Director

Ray Ellis
CWU National Officer

