Why Santander workers should be in the Communications Workers Union

The CWU is a specialised union in the finance and communications industry.

There are union reps on site to assist with any queries. Behind them the union has a network of regional and national officials, including legal, industrial, equality and health and safety experts.

The CWU work with Santander on improving pay and T&Cs.

The CWU provides one-to-one advice on concerns in the workplace and will represent members in disciplinary and grievance issues.

Within the first three months of union membership an average of 60% of new union members will approach us for advice. Following from that 30% of those will need further union advice or representation.
